F O R E W O R D

The court reorganization movement in North Carolina began in the mid nineteen-fifties and culminated in the adoption of constitutional amendments in 1962 and 1965 and the enactment of the "Judicial Department Act of 1965." Yet, North Carolina's unified judicial system is still relatively young. The year 1972 marks only the second year during which all divisions of the General Court of Justice have operated in each of the State's 100 counties. The Judicial Department consists of an Appellate Division composed of the Supreme Court and the Court of Appeals (which has been fully operational since 1968), a Superior Court Division and a District Court Division. The system is unified for purposes of jurisdiction, operation and administration. All of the officers and personnel of the Judicial Department are employees of the State.

There are now 7 justices of the Supreme Court, 9 judges of the Court of Appeals, 49 full-time Superior Court judges, 112 District Court judges, 30 district attorneys and 101 assistant district attorneys, 2 public defenders and 7 assistant public defenders (serving in the 12th and 18th judicial districts), 100 clerks of the superior court, approximately 520 magistrates, approximately 125 juvenile counselors (serving in 13 judicial districts), 76 court reporters, and approximately 1,100 supporting personnel (primarily assistants, deputies, secretarial and clerical personnel in the offices of clerks of the superior court).

The Administrative Officer of the Courts is required to "submit an annual report on the work of the Judicial Department" to the Chief Justice and the members of the General Assembly. This Annual Report is based upon data supplied by the clerks of superior court on a monthly and quarterly basis. The data contained herein can most appropriately be used in making year-to-year comparisons for the entire system and in comparing the performance of different counties and judicial districts. The data is also the beginning point for independent analysis of the performance of the courts of each county and judicial district. Although caution should be used in generalizing about the performance of the entire General Court of Justice, this report does evaluate the status of the criminal and civil dockets of the Superior and District Court divisions. These evaluations are carefully grounded on the available data base, but they derive from quantitative rather than qualitative data and are based upon totals for groups of counties rather than a thoroughgoing analysis of each county.

As explained in the foreword to last year's Annual Report, most of the year-to-year comparisons in the narrative portion of this report are based upon the 83 counties where the court structure was constant throughout the period of comparison.

The 83 counties that have been within the system for four or more years are referred to as "Group I" and the 17 counties that entered the system on December 7, 1970, are referred to as "Group II."

As discussed at page 24 of the 1971 Annual Report, there are a number of statistical indicators that may be used in evaluating court performance. There is no single barometer that gives a weighted average of all factors. In the 1971 Annual Report the superior and district court dockets were examined in terms of what percent the number of cases pending at the end of the year is of the total number of dispositions for the year. This indicator has been given greater emphasis in this year's report since the proportion of cases pending in relation to dispositions suggests a measure of court congestion. The indicator is calculated by dividing the cases pending by the cases disposed of, and is called the "pending ratio."

The statistics contained herein are case flow statistics and none are "backlog" or "delay" statistics. This report uses "cases pending" as one unit of analysis, but the term "backlog" will not be found herein and it is inaccurate to apply that term to the cases which are properly described as "pending." A case which is pending may be two days or two years old. "Backlog" may be tentatively defined as those cases which have been pending disposition longer than an agreed upon standard of time for the average case of the same type in the same court. A "delayed" case would be any case which exceeded the agreed upon standard time-frame and such cases could also be described as "backlogged." Even if an agreed upon standard time-frame with supporting data was available, such data could only properly be used (as is the case with the data which is available) as a starting point for analysis.

In any case, the Administrative Office does not now collect data on the length of time required for the disposition of particular cases. This is a deficiency which will be corrected. This office commissioned a special study which was conducted during 1972 with the purpose of determining the amount of time required to dispose of cases in the criminal division of the Superior Court. The results of that study will be available within the next few months. Additionally, this office is now planning for the implementation of a revised and expanded statistical reporting system which will provide information on the length of time it requires to dispose of cases. Both of these projects are being supported with LEAA funds administered by the Governor's Committee on Law and Order.

Whatever the unit of analysis, whether "cases pending," "delayed cases," or "pending ratios," a number of questions must be asked once the raw data is available. At what point in time is the data stated? Cases pending, for example, are stated as of December 31, 1972; are they generally higher during a holiday season? What effect do the customs and practices of the local bar have upon courtroom and trial delays? What are the policies of the court, the bar, and district attorneys with respect to continuances? Is there a well thought out system for the calendaring of cases? Are pre-trial release procedures working effectively? Is the waiver procedure for motor vehicle cases fully utilized? Are continuances caused by court congestion or are they sought after by the parties? What effect do sentencing practices have upon the rate of criminal appeals between the District and Superior Courts? How much court was held in the district and how often? (In some counties there are no more than two weeks of superior court each year.) What are the geographical dimensions of the judicial district? Are seats of court distant from one another, requiring a great deal of travel time by court officials? Are there sufficient courtrooms available when needed? Are the courtrooms located and designed so as to permit efficient dispatch of the court's business? How many cases counted as "pending" are essentially "dead" cases and will ultimately be nol prossed or dismissed? (It may in fact be customary strategy to file a civil action knowing at the time that the case will never be tried; similarly, it may be good strategy for the district attorney not to nol pros a case, although knowing that it will never be tried.) What is the extent of plea bargaining in the district? What is the settlement rate in the district? Has there been illness among court officials? Are there adequate investigatory resources? Are law enforcement and expert witnesses available when needed? The above list is not exhaustive but is illustrative of the types of questions that must be explored in analyzing the statistical data for each county and district.

The purpose of this foreword has not been to denigrate the statistical data reported herein, but to stress the subtlety and complexity of the variables which they reflect. All quantitative data must be read with care and this is especially true of court statistics. Too great a reliance on numbers alone gives credence to the concept of "mass justice." Court officials know that justice is administered to individuals.

NORTH CAROLINA JUDICIAL DIVISIONS AND DISTRICTS

DIVISION III
DIVISION II

DIVISION I

MOVIE

The State is divided into four judicial divisions and thirty judicial districts. Regular superior court judges are rotated from district to district of the division in which they reside. District court judges are rotated from county to county in the district in which they reside.

THE APPELLATE DIVISION

THE SUPREME COURT

One hundred and seventy-five opinions were filed by the Supreme Court in 1972. Full opinions were rendered in 172 cases and 3 opinions were per curiam. Of the total, 102 were criminal and 73 were civil cases. Seventy-eight percent (80 opinions) of the criminal appeals were affirmed and 47% (34 opinions) of the civil appeals were affirmed. In the remaining cases, the Supreme Court modified the decision from which the appeal was taken. As reported in the North Carolina Reports the court disposed of 228 petitions for certiorari, 33 motions to dismiss, 6 motions to rehear, and 4 motions to withdraw.

THE SUPERIOR COURT DIVISION

The performance of the superior court division of the General Court of Justice is adequately summarized in the sections on civil and criminal dockets which follow. Only a few items deserve highlighting in terms of the combined civil and criminal dockets. Total filings increased by only 2.5% while dispositions increased by 14.7%, resulting in an 8.3% reduction in the number of cases pending. The number of days of court scheduled increased by 4.7% and was closely followed by an increase of 3.2% in the number of days of court actually held. For all 100 counties the percentage of court utilization remained about the same, dropping by less than 1%. Significantly, the total number of cases pending is the lowest since court reorganization began in 1966.

It is especially encouraging to note that the pending ratio for the criminal division dropped from 50.9 in 1971 to 40.5 this year, and that the ratio for the civil division dropped from 153.1 to 131.3. Extrapolating these ratios, it may be estimated that it would require less than 5 months for the court to dispose of its pending criminal cases and about one year and 4 months to dispose of its civil cases. The improvement over last year is noteworthy, but these time-frames indicate that further improvement is desirable.

SUPERIOR COURT CIVIL DOCKETS

Court reorganization has had and continues to have a significant effect on the civil dockets of the superior court, the traditional forum for the trial of civil litigation involving large claims. In each of the past six years, dispositions have exceeded filings and the number of cases pending at the end of the year has shown a decrease from the prior year. These statistics are in sharp contrast to the trend which existed prior to court reorganization. In those years, filings continually exceeded dispositions and the number of pending cases was increasing annually. This improvement would be more apparent than real if it has resulted from a simple transfer of the superior court's docket problems to the civil division of the district court. This however, does not appear to be the case for the district court appears to be better able to keep abreast of its civil dockets than does the superior court.

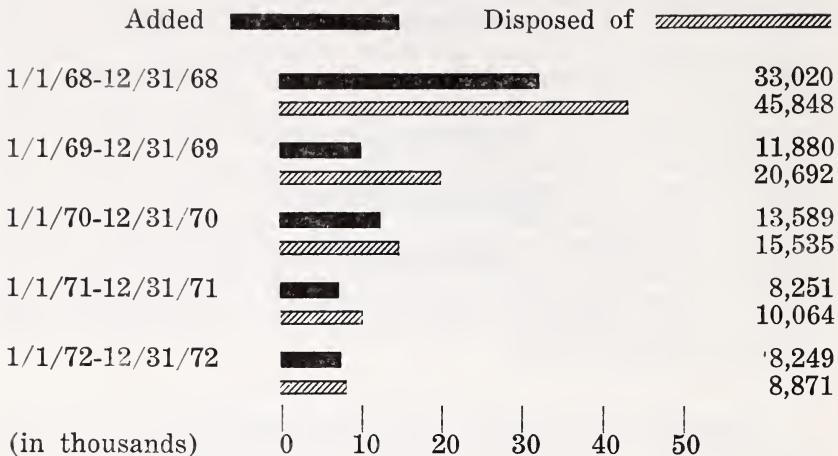

Nevertheless, it must be noted that the above is a comparative analysis. Although the year to year improvement is undeniable, such an analysis cannot obscure the fact that there is room for much improvement in the disposition of superior court civil cases. As would be expected, the pending ratio for this division is higher than for any other division of the General Court of Justice. The 1972 ratio is 131.3, indicating that it would require approximately one year and four months for the superior court to dispose of all cases pending. At a minimum, the number of cases pending at the end of the year should be reduced to an amount not in excess of the year's dispositions.

As compared to 1971, civil filings increased by less than 1.0%, dispositions decreased by 5.9%, and the number pending at the end of the year decreased by 5.8%. The number of days of court scheduled decreased by 4.2% and the number of days actually held decreased by 8.2%. The percentage of court utilization decreased from 76.4% to 73.3% and the rate of disposition dropped from 116.7% to 108.8%.

Among all 100 counties, the 10 counties with the largest civil dockets accounted for 48.1% of the total pending cases. Seventy-two counties had 100 or fewer cases pending and only 4 counties had more than 500 pending.

SUPERIOR COURT CRIMINAL DOCKETS

Nineteen hundred and seventy-two was a very good year for the criminal division of the superior court. Every available measure indicates marked improvement over performance of the last few years. Filings increased by only 2.8%, whereas in each of the last three years they had increased by 10% or more. Dispositions increased significantly by 20.5%, whereas the highest increase in recent years had been less than 10%. Moreover, the number of cases pending at the end of the year decreased by 9.9% compared to increases of 32.3% in 1970 and 28.3% in 1971. The number of days of court scheduled increased by 10.7% and the number of days held increased by 9.8%. The percentage of court utilization remained about the same, decreasing by less than 1%. The rate of disposition (the percentage of filings which were disposed of) exceeded 100% for the first time since 1965. The rate of disposition for 1972 was 104.7%, up from 89.8% in 1970 and 89.3% in 1971. Finally, the pending ratio dropped from 50.9 to 40.5.

What accounts for this marked improvement? Many factors are probably involved, but several deserve mention. The small increase in the number of filings is an obvious factor, and this was caused primarily by a reduction in the number of misdemeanor cases being appealed from the district court for trial de novo in the superior court. The number of these cases actually dropped by 4.1% while felony filings within the original jurisdiction of the superior court rose by 10.4%. Equally obvious is the fact that 30 additional assistant district attorneys authorized by the 1971 General Assembly were at work throughout the year. Also, the increased number of days of court held in 1972 undoubtedly contributed to the increased dispositions. Less obviously, the publicity given to the mounting caseloads of this division may have engendered a greater awareness of the problem among court officials and members of the bar and affected greater diligence in finding solutions.

The impact of district court appeals on superior court dockets has been recognized for some time and has been a topic of discussion at meetings of various court officials. The tables which appear on page 30 indicate that the relationship between the two divisions may be viewed in terms of the percentage of criminal cases tried in the district court which are appealed to the superior court and the percentage of total superior court filings which are cases appealed from the district court for trial de novo.

It is evident that any minor change in appeal rates from the district court (a high volume court) will have significant impact upon the superior court (a low volume court). Using the 1972 statistics as an indicator, it is possible to project the impact upon the superior court of any increase in the number of cases appealed from the district court for trial de novo. An increase of 1% in the number of cases appealed from the district court would add 3,782 cases to superior court criminal filings, an increase of almost 10%. This ratio between an increase in cases appealed from the district court and the consequent increase in superior court filings is one to ten. Therefore, if cases appealed from the district court increased by 5%, superior court filings would increase by 50%; if cases appealed from the district court increased by 10%, the caseload of the superior court would increase by 100%.

The above analysis reveals the delicate balance that must be achieved if the system is to perform effectively. An examination of appeal statistics since the district court was established is revealing and especially encouraging for the future. The statistics clearly demonstrate that the longer the district court is in operation, the lower the rate of appeals and the smaller the proportion of superior court filings which are appealed cases.

Apparently, after a period of adjustment and experience by the courts, district attorneys and the defense bar, a balance is reached and the appeal rate diminishes. For Group I counties, the percentage of superior court filings which were appeals has dropped from 57.4% (1970), to 52.1% (1971), to 48.6% (1972); and the percent of district court cases which were appealed has remained just below 5% for the same period. This trend is aptly demonstrated by looking at the 1972 statistics in terms of the number of years that the district court has been operating in the counties: for those 22 counties where the district court has been in operation for six full years the appeal rate from the district court is 4.5% and appeals are 44.6% of superior court filings; for the 61 counties in the system for four years the figures are 5.0% and 49.6%; and for those 17 counties which entered the system in December of 1970, the figures are 9.1% and 67.0%. It therefore seems reasonable to project that the percentages for the counties that entered the system in December of 1968 and 1970 will decrease to percentages comparable to those for the counties where the district court has operated for more than six years.

The above analysis is based upon totals for groups of counties, but the percentages in fact vary widely from county to county. In some counties the percentage of cases being appealed is in excess of 20% and misdemeanor cases constitute more than 70% of superior court filings.

Among all 100 counties, the 10 counties with the largest criminal dockets accounted for 41.7% of the total cases pending at the end of the year. Fifty-one counties had 100 or fewer cases pending at the end of the year, and only 7 counties had more than 500 cases pending. In 1971, 11 counties had more than 500 cases pending.

In the order named, Wake, Guilford, Mecklenburg, Forsyth and Cumberland had the largest number of cases filed in 1972. Among the counties that exceeded the statewide average for filings, the following counties had the largest percentage increases in filings between 1971 and 1972: Stanly (71.2%), Carteret (65.0%), Columbus (65.0%), Catawba (51.1%), and Vance (45.3%).

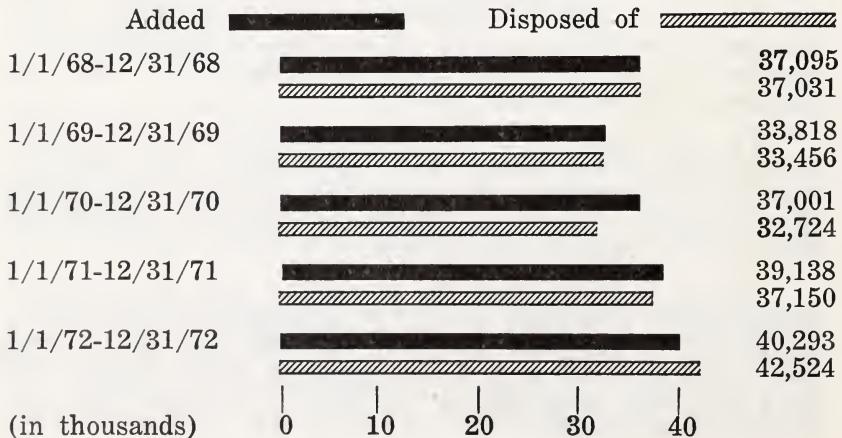

Wake County disposed of the most cases in 1972, followed in order by Mecklenburg, Guilford, Forsyth, and New Hanover. Among the counties that exceeded the statewide average for dispositions, the following counties made the most significant increases over 1971: Stanly (222.7%), Orange (210.4%), Buncombe (92.4%), Union (51.8%), and New Hanover (50.6%).

The highest number of jury trials, 326, was held in Wake in 1972; Mecklenburg held 324, Guilford held 175, Durham held 167, and Cumberland held 155. As would be expected, Mecklenburg led the State in the number of days of criminal court held (444), followed by Wake (367), Guilford (211), Buncombe (191), and Cumberland (188).

The 1971 Annual Report utilized pending ratios as a barometer of court performance for the first time. As already indicated, the pending ratio for 1972 is 40.5, suggesting that it would require about 5 months to dispose of all cases pending. The pending ratio, of course, varies from county to county, and it is useful to apply that test to each county. A new table appears at page 30 and it lists the 10 counties with the highest pending ratios.

THE DISTRICT COURT DIVISION

The district court system has now been operational in all 100 counties for a full two year period. It has operated in 83 counties for 4 years and in 22 counties for 6 years. All of the statistical measures continue to be encouraging about the performance of this high-volume trial division. Although both civil and criminal filings increased, there was a corresponding increase in dispositions. The total of civil and criminal cases pending at the end of the year decreased (civil cases pending decreased by 9.4% while criminal cases pending increased by 2.6%). The ratios between cases pending at the end of the year and dispositions for the year are especially encouraging. The ratio for criminal cases is 8.5; the ratio for civil cases is 28.3. In other words, it would require about one month for the district court to dispose of its criminal docket and about three and one-half months to dispose of its civil docket.

There was a significant reduction in the number of days of court held in this division in 1972, primarily because of a change in the definition of what constitutes a day of court. In fact, the district court was probably in session about the same number of days in 1972 as it was in 1971. The statewide statistics indicate that 5,404½ days of civil court and 10,852½ days of criminal court were held in 1972. Upon assignment by the Chief Justice, district judges held 248 days of court in judicial districts other than their own.

The tables relating to juvenile proceedings are found on pages 65 and 73. There were fewer new cases opened (children before the court for the first time) in 1972 than in 1971, the number decreasing from 13,583 to 13,341 or 1.8%. The number of adjudicatory hearings increased from 20,087 to 23,796 or 18.5%. The composition of the caseload remained about the same: delinquency accounted for 61.3%, undisciplined for 21.0%, dependency for 7.7%, and neglect for 10.0%. The bulk of delinquency charges were for misdemeanors (69.1%), 16.4% were for felonies, 14.2% were for violations of probation and .3% were for capital felonies. Almost one-half (46.1%) of undisciplined charges were for truancy.

DISTRICT COURT CIVIL DOCKETS

Civil filings increased by 9.5% but dispositions increased by 12.1%, allowing for a 9.4% reduction in the number of cases pending at the end of the year. The rate of disposition was 103.0% (more cases were disposed of than were filed).

Among all 100 counties, the 10 counties with the largest civil dockets accounted for 46.3% of the total civil cases pending. Fifty-eight counties had 300 or fewer cases pending at the end of the year and only 7 counties had more than 1,000 pending. As stated above, the ratio of pending cases to the year's dispositions is 28.3, indicating that the docket could be disposed of in about three and one-half months.

Of the 148,739 cases filed in all 100 counties in 1972, 63.9% were small claims, 14.1% were domestic cases, and 22.0% were regular civil actions in which a hearing before a district court judge was requested. Of the 152,289 cases which were disposed of, 20.9% were handled by a judge without a jury, a jury was impaneled in 1.9% of the cases, magistrates disposed of 59.2%, and the remaining 18.0% were disposed of by other means.

When the plaintiff so requests, claims for $300 or less are subject to assignment to a magistrate. Magistrates continue to dispose of almost all of these small claims. In 1972, magistrates disposed of 95.6% of such claims.

DISTRICT COURT CRIMINAL DOCKETS

In the 83 counties where the district court has operated for four years, filings increased by 6.4% over 1971, dispositions increased 5.2% over 1971, and the number of cases pending at the end of the year increased by 2.6% as compared with 1971.

The data from all 100 counties indicates that filings have exceeded one million cases (1,000,893) for the first time. Among these counties, only 17 had more than 1,000 cases pending at the end of the year and 45 counties had 300 or fewer pending. The 10 counties with the largest criminal dockets accounted for 52.6% of the total number of criminal cases pending. The rate of disposition for all 100 counties was 99.8%.

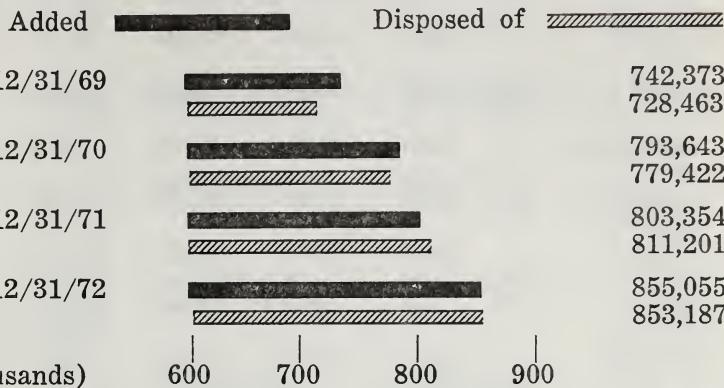

From year to year, the percentage breakdown for the types of cases handled and the manner of dispositions remains fairly constant. In 1972, 64.3% (643,870) of all criminal cases filed were for violations of the traffic laws. Other criminal offenses made up the remaining 35.7% (357,023). Only 10.7% of the cases disposed of were contested, requiring a full-fledged trial before a district court judge. A judge or magistrate disposed of 27.2% upon a plea of guilty or nolo contendere, and 44.8% were disposed of by a written appearance waiving trial and pleading guilty before a magistrate or clerk. Preliminary hearings constituted 1.9% of the criminal docket and the remaining 15.4% of total dispositions were terminated by other means.

Since mid-1971 the uniform traffic ticket and complaint has been in use by all law enforcement officials; the ticket contains detailed instructions on the use of the waiver procedure. In 1970, 63.0% of motor vehicle cases were disposed of by waiver; in 1971, 65.7% and in 1972, 69.4%. This improvement is encouraging, but there are still a few counties where this procedure is still not fully utilized; greater use of the waiver in those counties would tend to alleviate some courtroom congestion and delay.

All statistical measures continue to indicate more than satisfactory performance by the criminal district court. As already indicated, the ratio of criminal cases pending at the end of the year to dispositions for the year is 8.5. This ratio indicates that it would require about one month for the court to dispose of its criminal docket. This ratio for the majority of counties in fact falls below 8.5. There are only two counties in the State with ratios higher than 15.6; even in those counties it would require only about three months to dispose of all criminal cases pending.

* The data in all columns but the last indicates the total number of offenses alleged to have been committed and conditions alleged to have existed during the year. This data does not indicate the actual number of children before the court, since one petition may include several offenses or conditions and more than one petition may have been filed against a child during the year.

The last column, entitled "Children Before Court for First Time," is included here for convenience of format, but it is not otherwise related to the data in the other columns. This column does indicate the actual number of children in all categories of jurisdiction who were before the court for the first time during 1972.

* This table indicates the total number of adjudicatory hearings held in each category of juvenile jurisdiction during the year. Juvenile petitions may be dismissed either for failure to prove that the child is delinquent, undisciplined, dependent or neglected or, if he is found to be so, because the child is not in need of the care, protection or discipline of the State. All cases dismissed for either of these reasons are counted in the "dismissed" column; all other cases are counted in the "retained" column.

1. In some counties, the percent of cases disposed of exceeds one hundred percent because cases pending on January 1, 1972 are not included in the "filed" column. The figures in both the "filed" and "disposed of" columns are for the calendar year 1972. Some of the cases filed in 1972 will not be disposed of until 1973 and some of the cases disposed of in 1972 were filed in 1971. Assuming a fairly constant rate of filing and disposition, the percentages are relatively accurate.

REPRESENTATION OF INDIGENTS

Private counsel are appointed to represent indigent defendants in 28 of the State's judicial districts. In the 12th and 18th judicial districts (Cumberland, Hoke, and Guilford Counties) indigents are normally represented by the public defender's office. The costs of this program rose from $1,626,355.38 in the 1970-71 fiscal year to $1,962,719.59 in the 1971-72 fiscal year, an increase of 20.7%. The program constituted 7.4% of total Judicial Department expenditures in both 1970-71 and 1971-72. The costs of the program in 1971-72 are summarized as follows:

Assigned Counsel in Criminal Cases	$ 1,556,631.72
Assigned Counsel in Juvenile Cases	99,204.78
Total	$ 1,655,836.50
Public Defender's Office in 12th Judicial District	90,863.53
Public Defender's Office in 18th Judicial District	101,780.09
Total	$ 192,643.62
Transcripts, Records and Briefs	112,544.47
Expert Witness Fees	1,695.00
TOTAL	$ 1,962,719.59

The table at the end of this section compares the assigned counsel program in 1970-71 and 1971-72. The number of cases assigned rose from 9,179 to 11,278 or 22.9% and expenditures rose from $1,405,413 to $1,655,837 or 17.8%. Of the 11,278 assignments in 1971-72, 1,660 or 14.7% were in juvenile proceedings.

Court appearances represent only a portion of the activity of the public defenders, but the numbers do reflect the high level of activity in both of these offices:

1972 Court Appearances

	12th District	18th District
District Court	678	1,254
Superior Court	404	591
Appellate Courts	17	15

The total cost of providing counsel to indigents in the two districts with public defenders was as follows:

	12th District	18th District
Public Defender	90,864	101,780
Assigned Counsel	13,935	10,008
	104,799	111,788

It is instructive to compare these costs with the costs of the program in other urban areas: 10th District (Wake) $160,559; 14th District (Durham) $100,451; 21st District (Forsyth) $77,685; and 26th District (Mecklenburg) $222,343. These amounts include payments for transcripts, records, briefs, and expert witnesses as well as payments to assigned counsel.

When private counsel or the public defender is assigned to represent an indigent, the court sets the money value of services rendered and enters judgment against the defendant for such amount. Receipts from payments on these judgments rose from $37,692.73 in 1970-71 to $57,624.79 in 1971-72. Receipts in 1971-72 amounted to 2.9% of the total cost of the indigent defendant program.
